SOLDIERS POWERLESS

No Trains Moved by Their Aid at Chicago.

A NUMBER OF EFFORTS MADE.

No Resistance Made to the Soldiers but They Were No Equal to the Strikers in Number—Not a Shot Fired or a Person Wounded by the Militia—The Situation Elsewhere.

CHICAGO, July 6 —The sun went down on by far the most turbulent and critical day thus far in the unparalleled railroad strike and boycott. When it opened there was a general feeling that its passage would go far toward clearing the atmosphere, if, indeed, it did not practically lift the embargo on commerce which has held this city in its grip for the past week, was that expectation was chiefly based on the presence of federal troops in the most dangerous districts

Looking at the situation at the close of the day, however, it must be confessed that the hope indulged as the opening in this regard, has not been justified. The troops were few in number, at best, and when they were divided into squads and distributed at points separated by very considerable distances, it soon became evident that their prestige as overawing bodies had been dissipated at the same time

Instead of fleeing in fear before the faces of two veterans, as was expected they would do the turbulent thousands surged about the little band of soldiers, jeered and hooted at them, cast vile epithets at them and literally played hide and seek with them, stopping trains at will, and generally rendering the embargo in the military district more effective, if possible, than before

The throngs of strikers did not resist Uncle Sam's police Again and again when there were thousands of them about a train, which it was sought to move, and on the track in front of it, they gave way like water before the leveled bayonets of a single company of infantry, or the trampling of a single squad of cavalry Like water, too, they closed in again at a point just beyond They turned switches, derailed freight cars in front of the slow moving train and played all sorts of railroaders' tricks with which the soldiers were unacquainted Thus it was that the troops at the stockyards in perseverance and patience spent the entire day in a vain endeavor to get one trainload of dressed beef out of sight of the starting point

Another and pleasanter thing this experience showed, and that was the admirable coolness, self poise and discipline of the troops throughout an exasperating 12 hours Not a shot was fired, not a man was pricked by a bayonet which argues that, with force enough, the soldiers would have done the work which was expected of them The quality was there, merely the quantity was lacking

Aside from the immediate neighborhood where the troops were operating, there was plenty of excitement and disorder Great mobs gathered on the Lake Shore, Rock Island, Alton and Western Indiana tracks and proceeded to obstruct them by overturning box cars, breaking switches and the like At one point they set fire to a switch-tower and an interlocking switchbox, though the flames were extinguished before serious damage was done

In two instances there was bloodshed On the Western Indiana tracks a hard pressed special policeman fired at his pursuers, wounding a striker in the leg On the Lake Shore road an official of that company, in charge of a train which he was endeavoring to force through, emptied his revolver point blank into the massed strikers about him, wounding two or three it is believed He was saved from the fury of the mob by his engineer, who put on steam and ran back to the point of starting

Shortly after noon a mob numbering 2,000 starting north on the Lake Shore tracks at Thirty seventh street overturning cars and obstructing the line in every possible way They were not checked until they reached Twenty second street, where a heavy force of police was massed and succeeded in turning them back

During the afternoon Mayor Hopkins and Chief of Police Brennan went down the Lake Shore road with an official of that road, intending to go to the stock yards Their passage was obstructed and they were compelled to finish the journey on foot

Of the strike in general, it may be said that it has broadened during the day The Big Four, on which it was understood traffic was to be resumed by agreement is practically tied up

At Joliet everything is at a standstill, because the yardmen have gone out, and the city waterworks have shut down for lack of coal

Kansas City is again tied up pretty completely

The federal troops quickly put an end to the trouble at Raton, N M, arresting a lot of strikers and starting them for Denver, though they may be hung up on the way

Paralysis continues on the Pacific coast There are federal troops at Los Angeles but none have been sent to Sacramento or Oakland, pending a decision of the question whether or not the state troops and United States marshals can cope with the situation.

WHY THE PULLMAN MEN STRUCK

President Debs Issues an Address to the Public.

CHICAGO, July 6 —President Debs of the American Railway union has issued an address to the public, the purport of which, he said, was to acquaint the people with the facts relating to the present trouble. He declared that the Pullman employes who struck on May 6 did so entirely of their own accord Their action was spontaneous and unanimous, a revolt against a series of deep-seated wrongs of long standing Labor leaders not only had no part in it, but those connected with the American Railway union advised against it The employes at Pullman had virtually become the slaves of the corporation

At the time of the strike they were in arrears for rent alone to the extent of $70,000 Within a short time they would have become hopelessly involved in debt and would have mortgaged soul and body to the Pullman company This had resulted because while wages had been reduced, the cost of living had remained the same

The employes from the beginning had been willing to arbitrate their differences with the company This was still their position The claims of the company that there was nothing to arbitrate was absurd Committee after committee waited on the officials of the company, but was always repulsed The company was and is still as unyielding as adamant

Finally on June 12, the delegates of the American Railway union met in convention in Chicago The Pullman trouble had been discussed at their local meetings. Many of the delegates came instructed Two committees were sent to the officials, but no satisfaction could be obtained As a last resort the delegates determined by unanimous vote to decline to haul Pullman cars unless the company would do justice within five days This action was taken six weeks after the strike at Pullman occurred.

How did the strike extend to the railways? The day before the order of the union declining to haul Pullman cars went into effect the General Managers' association representing the principal western railways, met and agreed to uphold the Pullman company in its fight against its employes that they would haul Pullman cars and that they would stand together in crushing the life out of the American Railway union Trouble resulting had spread from line to line and from system to system until a crisis had been reached Every good citizen must view the outlook with grave concern

What could be done to restore peace and confidence? The American Railway union stood ready to do anything in its power that was honorable to end the trouble It simply insisted that the Pullman company shall meet its employes and do them justice The latter would accept any honorable proposition The company might act through its officers or otherwise and the employes through their chosen representatives Let them agree so far as they could and submit disputed points to arbitration The question of the recognition of the American Railway union or any other organization was waived

Let the spirit of conciliation, mutual concession and common sense animate and govern both sides and there would be no trouble in reaching a settlement that would be satisfactory to all concerned Then let the railroads agree to restore all their employes to their situation without prejudice and the trouble would be ended The railways were not required to recognize the American Railway union If any thought this a weakening on the part of the employes they were welcome to the solace of the conclusion The employes had been misrepresented, but they believed the truth would finally prevail

As to the charge that this was a sympathetic strike the employes had done only what the corporations had done Other organizations of workingmen had felt the oppressive hand of corporate capital They would not be called out but would go out

As to his own part in the strike Mr Debs said it was not ordered by himself no by any other individual He had never ordered nor called anybody out Under the rules of the American Railway union members could only strike when a majority of their number so decided One vote of the delegates in this instance was unanimous When ever men have struck they have done so of their own will He had simply served the notice after the men had determined to quit

"In closing, said Mr Debs, "let me repeat that we stand ready to do our part toward averting the impending crisis We have no false pride to stand in the way of a settlement We do not want 'official' recognition All we ask is fair play for the men who have chosen us to represent them If the corporations refuse to yield and stubbornly maintain that there is nothing to arbitrate the responsibility for what may ensue will be upon their hands, and they can not escape its penalties"

DEPUTIES USE THEIR GUNS

Two Men Shot and Painfully Wounded Arrests Follow

CHICAGO, July 6 —Two deputy United States marshals almost created a riot at Thirty third street and the Panhandle tracks last night two men being shot and painfully wounded About 12 o clock the two deputies named Eugene Keck and Michael McGinn went into a saloon at Western avenue to get a drink There was quite a crowd standing around the place at the time, and the deputies were hooted at When they came out some one began throwing rocks at them, and the deputies pulled their revolvers and began firing

At this time there was a large crowd around them, and Henry Roehr and August Ross received bullets in the arm and leg, respectively The shooting attracted the attention of the police and the two men were arrested At this time the crowd was thoroughly enraged at the action of the deputies and there was threats of lynching them They were guarded however, by the police, who finally took them to the station

Blockade Broken

ST JOSEPH, Mo, July 6 —The blockade in this city has been broken and both the Rock Island and Chicago Great Western roads are running trains Some of them who were out have returned to work and will not quit again unless all the men on the system go out The Chicago Great Western now receives perishable freight of all kinds

Passenger Trains Sidetracked

VALPARAISO Ind, July 6 —Two passenger trains on the Fort Wayne road with nearly 150 passengers and one on the Grand Trunk with 250 passengers are sidetracked here, with orders not to move until further notice No trains have arrived from the west for 10 hours

Steel Mills Close Down

CHICAGO, July 6 —The Calumet Terminal railway employes have struck, and as a result the steel mills in South Chicago have closed down Three thousand men are thrown out of employment by the closing of the mills

Tunnels Guarded by Troops

TRINIDAD, Colo, July 6 —A large number of trains on all roads have been moved The American Railway union has elected new officers to take the place of those arrested The tunnel is guarded at either end by troops

Debs Orders More Men Out

DENVER, July 6 —An order calling out all American Railway union men employed on the Denver and Rio Grande has been received from President Debs It will probably be obeyed

NO USE FOR FEDERALS

Governor Altgeld Wants Them Withdrawn From Illinois.

A LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT.

He Asks the Immediate Withdrawal of the Federal Troops From Active Duty Until He Asks For Their Aid President Cleveland's Reply—A Meeting of Protests to Be Held in Chicago

SPRINGFIELD Ills, July 6 —Governor Altgeld yesterday sent a telegram to President Cleveland in which he protests against the active use of the United States troops at Chicago His telegram is as follows

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
STATE OF ILLINOIS July 5
Hon Grover Cleveland, President of the United States Washington

DEAR SIR—I am advised that you have ordered federal troops to go into service in the state of Illinois Surely the facts have not been correctly presented to you in this case, or you would not have taken this step for it is entirely unnecessary and as it seems to me, unjustifiable Waiving all questions of courtesy, I will say that the state of Illinois is not only able to take care of itself, but it stands ready today to furnish the federal government any assistance it may need elsewhere

Our military force is ample and consists of as good soldiers as can be found in the country They have been ordered out promptly whenever and wherever they were needed We have stationed in Chicago alone three regiments of infantry one battery and one troop of cavalry and no better soldiers can be found They have been ready every moment to go on duty and have been and are now eager to go into service But they have not been ordered out because nobody in Cook county, whether official or private citizen asked to have their assistance, or even intimated in any way that their assistance was desired or necessary

So far as I have been advised the local officials have been able to handle the situation But if any assistance were needed, the state stood ready to furnish 100 men for every one man required and stood ready to do so at a moment's notice Notwithstanding these facts the federal government had been applied by the men who had political and selfish motives for wanting to ignore the state government We have just gone through a long coal strike, more extensive here than in any other state, because our soft coal field is larger than that of any other state we have now had 10 days of the railroad strike and we have promptly furnished military aid wherever the local officials needed it.

In two instances the United States marshal for the southern district of Illinois applied for assistance to enable him to enforce the processes of the United States court and troops were promptly furnished him and he was assisted in every way he desired The law has been thoroughly executed and every man guilty of violating it during the strike has been brought to justice If the marshal for the southern district of Illinois or the authorities of Cook county needed military assistance they had but to ask for it in order to get it from the state

At present some of our railroads are paralyzed not by reason of obstructions but because they can not get men to operate their trains For some reason they are anxious to keep this fact from the public and for this purpose are making an outcry about obstructions in order to divert attention Now I will cite to you two examples which illustrate the situation

Some days ago I was advised that the business of one of our railroads was obstructed at two railroad centers—that there was a condition bordering on anarchy there, and I was asked to furnish protection so as to enable the employes of the road to operate the trains Troops were promptly ordered to both points Then it transpired that the company had not sufficient men on its lines to operate on train The old hands were orderly but refused to go The company had large shops in which worked a number of men who did not belong to the railway union and who could run an engine They were appealed to to run the train but flatly refused We were obliged to hunt up soldiers who could run an engine and operate a train

Again two days ago appeals which were almost frantic came from officials of another road stating that at an important point on their line trains were forcibly obstructed and that there was a reign of anarchy at that place and they asked for protection so that they could move their trains Troops were put on the ground in a few hours' time when the officer in command telegraphed me that there was no trouble and had been none at that point, but the road seemed to have no men to run trains and the sheriff telegraphed that he did not need troops, but would himself move every train if the company would only furnish an engineer

The result was that the troops were there over 13 hours before a single train was moved although there was no attempt at interference by anybody It is true that in several instances a road made efforts to work a few green men, and a crowd standing around insulted them and tried to drive them away, and in a few other cases they cut off Pullman sleepers from trains But all these troubles were local in character and could easily be handled by the state authorities Illinois has more railroad men than any other state in the Union but as a rule they are orderly and well behaved

This is shown by the fact that so very little actual violence has been committed Only a very small per cent of these men has been guilty of any infractions of the law The newspaper accounts have in many cases been pure fabrications and in others wild exaggerations I have gone thus into details to show that it is not soldiers that the railroads need so much as it is men to operate trains and that the conditions do not exist here which bring the cause within the federal statutes a statute that was passed in 1861 and was in reality a war measure This statute authorized the use of federal troops in a state whenever it shall be impracticable to enforce the laws of the United States within such states by the ordinary judicial proceedings

Such a condition does not exist in Illinois There have been a few local disturbances but nothing that seriously interfered with the administration of justice or that could not be easily controlled by the local or state authorities for the federal troops can not do nothing that the state troops can not do I repeat that you have been imposed upon in this matter but even if by a forced construction it were held that the conditions here came within the letter of the statute then I submit that local self government is a fundamental principal of our constitution Each community shall govern itself so long as it can and is ready and able to enforce the law and it is in harmony with this fundamental principle that the statute authorizing the president to send troops into states must be construed, especially in this matter relating to the exercise of the police power and the preservation of law and order

To absolutely ignore a local government in matters of this kind when the local government is ready to furnish assistance needed and is amply able to enforce the law not only insults the people of this state by imputing to them an inability to govern themselves or an unwillingness to enforce the law but is in violation of a basic principle of our institutions The question of federal supremacy is in no way involved No one disputes it for a moment but under our constitution federal supremacy and local self government must go hand in hand and to ignore the latter is to do violence to the constitution

As governor of the state of Illinois I protest against this and ask the immediate withdrawal of the federal troops from active duty in this state Should the situation at any time get so serious that we can not control it with the state forces we will promptly and freely ask for federal assistance but until such time I protest with all due deference against this uncalled for reflection upon our people and again ask the immediate withdrawal of these troops I have the honor to be yours respectfully

JOHN P ALTGELD,
Governor of Illinois

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S REPLY

He Gives His Reason For Calling Out the Federal Troops

WASHINGTON July 6 —President Cleveland has sent the following reply to Governor Altgeld's request for the removal of federal troops from Illinois

EXECUTIVE MANSION
WASHINGTON July 5
Hon John P Altgeld Governor of Illinois Springfield Ills:

Federal troops were sent to Chicago in strict accordance with the constitution and laws of the United States upon the demand of the postoffice department that obstruction of the mails should be removed and upon the representations of the judicial officers of the United States that process of the federal courts could not be executed through the ordinary means and upon abundant proof that conspiracies existed against commerce between the states

To meet these conditions which are clearly within the province of federal authority the presence of federal troops in the city of Chicago was deemed not only proper but necessary and there has been no intention of thereby interfering with the plain duty of the local authorities to preserve the peace of the city

The Council have four days more in which to reflect over the paving question Will they give us our money's worth, or shall we pay $30,000 for one year's use of brick on the Public Square? Let us hope it may be the former

Lima cannot afford to pay $30,000 for one year's care of the Public Square, and that is just what it means to lay the paving with cull brick, which have been condemned in and refused by Findlay, Fremont, Kenton and other neighboring towns

Every taxpayer in Lima is with the TIMES-DEMOCRAT in the demand for a five years' guarantee on the Public Square Will the Council grant the wish of their constituents and give them a paving guaranteed for the usual period? We believe they will

When the council let the contract for paving the Public Square they can not be too careful about the character of the bond given Nothing should be accepted but a local bond This is given in all the larger cities when clean, honest work is intended and Lima should be similarly protected

The effect of the Pullman strike has reached Lima The Standard has notified all oil producers that they must provide tankage to store their oil in, as the strike has compelled the shutting down of the big Whiting refinery near Chicago It will cost many dollars to the producers to prepare to thus care for their production

Times are very hard, and the tax levied to raise $30,000 with which to beautify the Public Square will be paid with difficulty by many It will be paid at the expense of many little luxuries taken from the homes But Lima's enterprising citizens do not begrudge the expenditure if they only have an assurance that the men they elected to the Council to transact the public business will see that for each dollar expended their constituents get a dollar in value They know this cannot be done if, when a contract is made for paving the Square, contractors are allowed to put in such inferior material that they cannot guarantee it to last more than a year $30,000 is too much money to pay for caring for the Square for only a year

A municipal officer yesterday said in commenting on the demand made for a five years' guaranty on the paving the Public Square "Why, it is all in the foundation, anyway The contractors cannot guarantee the brick, for the brickmakers do not guarantee them to the contractors This lets the cat out of the bag It shows the intention of contractors to lay on our Public Square, under only a year's guaranty brick that the manufacturers will not put their guaranty on Lima's taxpayers do not want to be compelled to pay for any such material Every reputable and reliable brick maker who manufactures vitrified brick for paving purposes makes in each kiln he turns out a percentage of perfect bricks on which he will put his guaranty It is these that are put down in other cities where a five years' guaranty is demanded and given, and it is the only kind that will be permitted to go down on the Public Square in the center of Lima We do not want a pavement made of cull brick, the refuse of kilns which could not be used in neighboring towns because the manufacturers would not guarantee them to the contractor and the contractors would not guarantee to last five years, the guaranty period usually given

Is there one member of the council who would enter into a contract to build a private drive under the guaranty for one year as contemplated in the specifications for paving the Public Square, when he knew that his next door neighbor had made a similar contract under a five years guaranty? Most emphatically, no They are all possessed of too much good sense, too much business sagacity to do that Further, they know too well how hard it was to earn the money with which the improvement was to be paid to be so reckless as to buy an expensive piece of paving which the contractor had so little confidence in that he would not guarantee it for a longer period than one year And the gentlemen composing the council will surely not be less careful in making a public contract which involves $30 000 of public money than they would in contracting a possible $300 of their own money

M'KINLEY FINANCE

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1891, the total revenue of the government was $403 080,983 For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894 the revenue was $295 000,000—a falling off of over $100,000,000 To better illustrate the workings of McKinleyism the following figures showing customs and internal revenue receipts for the four past fiscal years are given

Fiscal Year Ending June 30	Revenue From Customs	Internal Revenue
1891	$220 038 ?50	$ 49 000 06
1892	319 522 ?0	145 036 10
1893	17? 4?? 941	153 9 1 6?
1894	*1?0,000 000	*147 000 000

*Estimate

It will be observed that while there has been a falling off of over $97,000 000 in customs, there has been an increase in internal revenue receipts notwithstanding the business depression

At the same time that the Billion Dollar Congress cut down revenue with one hand it enlarged expenditure with the other When Harrison surrendered office to President Cleveland the treasury was bankrupt but fixed expenditure had been swollen to terrific proportions In 1889 when Harrison went into office the total ordinary expenditures of the government exclusive of interest on the public debt, were $299 288 978

For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1892 the ordinary expenditures were $3?5 7?3 905—an increase of over $66 000,000 The Billion Dollar Congress brought ordinary expenditures up to a million dollars per day

The gasconading gentry who talk so glibly of the condition of the country under Democratic administration will have very little to say if confronted with these undeniable figures The depression in business finds a ready explanation in a policy that reduces revenue at the same time that it increases expenditure The Republican party is responsible for all the ills it hypocritically deplores —Philadelphia Record

Knives and the Napkins

There is a good deal of uncertainty as to whether it is or is not the thing to fold a napkin after a formal meal If one is staying in the house and knows that napkin rings are in use there it seems a reflection upon that custom to fling the napkin down in an untidy heap An elegantly appointed table deserves better treatment even at the end of the meal than those disheveled piles of napery too Therefore it always seems fittest to simply half fold the napkin and not attract attention to it either by one obtrusive habit or the other —Philadelphia Press

Don't Chew Toothpicks

Don't, oh, don't chew toothpicks after meals I have seen, says a correspondent the most charming looking girls dancing out of fashionable dining rooms with toothpicks clinched between their pearly teeth as though their lives depended on it A drowning man will clutch at a straw, they say but a woman should be going down for the third time before she should clutch at a toothpick

A Great Secret Society Man.

The greatest secret society man in America is Abner Markoe of Chicago—at least that is what Mr Markoe says himself, and he would like some person to dispute his claim "I am 63 years of age, said Mr Markoe, "and I am a member of 42 societies I have taken the highest degrees in Masonry, Odd Fellowship and the Knights of Pythias and hold chairs in several of the fraternal insurance orders I don't think there is another man in the United States who has such a record A man in Philadelphia comes the nearest He belongs to 30 secret societies

'Don't you get your grips confused sometime.

'No said Mr Markoe, ' because I use the signs and grip of only three orders It would take a man with two heads to remember 12 of them —New York Mail and Express

People Who Look Alike

We are sometimes hearing of people strikingly similar to Mr Gladstone, the Prince of Wales, Lord Randolph Churchill and the rest Mr Parnell had a double in the person of Mr Sidney Hall the artist Indeed in the lobby of the house of commons and during the Parnell commission Mr Hall was constantly being mistaken for the Irish leader The best known double of the Prince of Wales is Mr James J Van Alen, who was named as United States minister to Italy

Mr Alma Tadema and Mr G du Maurier are strikingly alike One would hardly expect to find a double in the strongly marked characteristic countenance of Tennyson Yet the portrait of Mr Joel Benton might very easily be taken for the late poet laureate The side face of Mr E J Henley is a remarkable reproduction of the side face of John Ruskin as the latter appeared many years ago The late Mr W K Vanderbilt might have been the twin brother of Jules Ferry and Bret Harte has his double in an American judge—Mr Melville Fuller Many minor personages take delight in dwelling upon their likeness to some great individual Mr Bolton member for the St Pancras division prides himself that he is an exact counterpart to the great Napoleon He arranges his hair after the manner of the first consul and purses his lips He is always spoken of among his friends as Napoleon Bonaparte"—Pittsburg Dispatch

The First Use of Tea.

By whom or when the use of tea for drinking purposes was first discovered is lost in antiquity It is spoken of as a famous herb in Chinese literature as far back as 2000 years B C at which time its cultivation and classification were almost as thorough and complete as they are today One of the ancient legends says that its virtues were accidentally learned by King Shen Nung She the Chinese monarch who is also known as The Divine Husbandman whom the record says flourished 40 centuries ago He was engaged in boiling water over a fire made of the branches of the tea plant and carelessly allowed some of the leaves to fall into the pot

The liquid which he expected to come from the vessel simply as sterilized water was miraculously converted into an elixir of life by the accidental addition of the tea leaves Soon after it became highly esteemed in all the oriental cities and was used as a royal gift from the Chinese monarchs to the potentates of southern and western Asia

This same King Shen Nung She not only earned the title of respect by which he was known through the discovery of the virtues of tea but because of being the first to teach his people how to make and use plows and many other implements of husbandry St Louis Republic

Windsor Castle

From 60 to 70 beds are in constant requirement at Windsor castle for the sovereign's family The grandchildren and great grandchildren all belong to her and all live with her instead of dwelling in separate residences with their parents Her stock of princesses is so large that she gladly welcomes any suitor rich or poor royal or otherwise that comes along and gives him a handsome fortune from her heaps of gold and diamonds in the castle lockup She is served at table and accompanied when donkey driving by Indian princes and highland chieftains of the highest rank clad in the costumes of their country Small wonder then, that her majesty excites the greatest admiration combined with curiosity whenever she travels and that deeply interested crowds collect in any spot where there is a chance of seeing the great queen pass —London Letter

Knowledge of History.

A southern magazine by way of illustrating the transitoriness of fame says that less than 29 years after the close of the civil war the following conversation took place at a Chicago railway station where a soldierly passenger had just stepped from a train

'Who is that fine looking man?" said a prominent citizen of the city to an ex Confederate

'That is General Buckner was the reply

'Who is General Buckner?

General Buckner of the Confederate army you know who surrendered Fort Donelson

The prominent citizen seemed to be collecting his thoughts

'Oh!' he said, he surrendered Fort Donelson did he? What did he do that for?

One Sided Cable Gripmen

"All the gripmen necessarily must be muscular ' said a big cable train driver on the Lincoln avenue line, for the physical exertion is great, and a weak man could not stand the strain It's a sort of one sided trade, though If a fellow sticks to it long he gets bigger on the right side of his body than on the left for the pulling and pushing hauling and jerking are done mostly with that side I don't know any man who's been at the work long enough to become really deformed by it but I've seen many gripmen who were plainly larger, heavier more muscular on the right side especially in the shoulder than on the other side

'No, I've never seen the phenomenal enlargement—the gripman's arm, the boys call it—on the left side for the simple reason that the builders of grip cars don't take left handed men into their calculations There are no left handed grip cars consequently there are no left handed gripmen —Chicago Tribune

One of the best things a man can say when he has reasonable doubts what he ought to say is to say nothing

ALL TO HIS MOTHER

How the Winner of the Brooklyn Handicap Disposed of the Purse.

An old lady in the west gets $18 000 as a result of the Brooklyn Handicap Two months ago Fred Foster owner of Dr Rice, left her in the doorway of her home at St Paul As he kissed her he said, Mother, I am going to win the Handicap and you shall have every cent of the stakes" There were two other persons interested in saying good luck and goodby to Foster They kissed him too, because they were his two pretty sisters, and since then they have every day rained anxious telegrams upon him When the last came the morning of the race, Foster telegraphed back, "Hold on tight, girls"

And they did till the result was known, and they probably broke their hearts trying to think up something good to telegraph him in congratulation Foster sent back the word that he had told them so and that a check for his mother would be forwarded next day His modest and unassuming manner conveyed the impression that the hunchback horse owner did not glory much in his victory Yet he said when a reporter approached him Pray let me off I'm too happy to talk now " He had little more than that to say to Fred Taral but another check for $0 000 went into the jockey's pocket, and that did the talking

When the race was run Fred Foster ran from the crowd to his stable, where he awaited the return of Dr Rice He patted him pleasantly and then assumed that air of indifference that astonished his friends when he sauntered back into the paddock He told no one what his winnings were but just before the race he said to a correspondent that he had placed $3 000 in such bets as would if Dr Rice was first bring him $115 000 He probably really won somewhere near that for he took up odds of 70 and 50 to 1 before he gave out that after he had purchased Dr Rice of Gideon & Daly last year he had taken the overworked and broken down horse to the Manitoba plains There he had doctored him, and by the spring had him in condition to win a good race at Madison

On this becoming known, he could not get better odds than 30 to 1 and finally 20 to 1 The condition of Dr Rice became still better known on trials and later most of the bookmakers remembering what Dr Rice had taught them last year, became afraid to offer more than 4 to 1 Then Foster placed no more bets save the promise of a wine supper to a party of quiet turfmen and newspaper men like himself This hunchback has made his winnings on an original investment of the $5 000 he paid for the supposed wreck and expenses estimated at $5 000 more —Philadelphia Press

An Electric Shaving Pot

An addition to the recent electrical appliances has appeared in the shape of an electrically heated shaving pot This pot can be made instantly available in any room to which current for light is supplied The base of the pot is hollow like the bottom of a champagne bottle and a lamp is slipped inside the bottom of the pot being closed up by a metal reflector having a circular hole in it through which the neck of the lamp passes into the lampholder fixed on the base

A small amount of light passes out below the reflector through a ring of glass just above the cap of the lamp and is reflected by the white base below This light is more than sufficient to use the apparatus by in a bedroom One point in which this appliance differs from other electric kettles is that lamps of various candle power can be readily inserted The water can be kept hot with an eight candle power boiling with a 16 candle power or rapidly boiled with a 50 candle power The cost of using this pot for the daily shave for a week is about 2 cents —New York Telegram

The Revolutionary War Societies.

The Society of the Colonial Wars in the state of New Jersey has elected General E Burd Grubb governor This organization now exists in the states of New York Pennsylvania Maryland Massachusetts New Jersey and the District of Columbia and embraces in its membership the lineal descendants of those who were prominent in the colonies before the Revolution In this way they claim to be older stock than the Sons of the Revolution who date back to ancestors who became prominent in and after 1776 There is also a Society of Colonial Dames —Philadelphia Times

"I don't suppose, said E G Noble, a Cincinnati florist 'that many people who admire the variegated plants that adorn our greenhouses are aware that the variety of coloring is due to a disease which is at once contagious and capable of being transmitted from one plant to another by a kind of inoculation Variegation is a sign of organic disease and if the discoloration were general it would produce death The variegated portions of the leaf have lost their power of reducing the carbonic acid of the atmosphere the plants are generally smaller weaker and their flowers much poorer and their power of resisting cold considerably diminished

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Holland's Queen at Fifteen.

The young queen of the Netherlands is very rapidly passing out of childhood and becoming a young lady She will be 15 on the 31st of August and it will require only three years more to make her so much of a woman that were she an American, it would be time for her to come out' have a big tea and meet all her mother's friends, and then start on a round of assemblies and patriarchs. As it is she will proably have enough to employ all her time

Queen Wilhelmina is a well grown girl fair and rosy, with a democratic enthusiasm for sport and romping games Her regimen of life is as simple as that of many young women whose worldly position is not nearly so high and far simpler than that of the American children of millionaire parents She will gain every promised virtue that comes to those whose habit is ' early to bed and early to rise,' for she is at her lessons by half past 8 every morning After three hours of study comes play with her dogs or pigeons or a drive behind her beloved white ponies Two more hours of study come after luncheon, and then more play in the open air when the weather is good Dinner comes at half past 6, when Wilhelmina dines usually alone with her mother, and bed is not long after dinner

Wilhelmina has grown up in the atmosphere of the bourgeois Dutch court to feel thoroughly Dutch in spirit and sympathies and the costume in which the picture shows her is that of a peasant farmer's wife One of her favorite costumes in which she has never been photographed is her uniform as a colonel of the Second regiment of Westphalian cavalry to which the German emperor appointed her two years ago.

Dorothy at the Wedding.

Little Miss Dorothy Drew, Mr Gladstone's favorite granddaughter, has been interviewed on her experiences as one of the bridesmaids at Miss Margot Tennant's wedding

Dorothy or Dossie as she is called, said

Yes I went to Margot's wedding I was one of Margot's little maids and I wore a rosy bonnet and a white satin frock with lace on it

Miss Tennant was your godmother was she not?

'Was she? Well she doesn't look like it, does she She gave me this beautiful brooch for the wedding You may just look at it but I cannot have you take it off because it is my own After the wedding I went to Margot's house and had strawberries and sponge cake and a slice of peach '

No ' interrupted the nurse 'I do not think you had peach '

Oh yes I am very sure I had Very likely it was before you came '

And were you very good at the wedding?"

Yes because I had on my pearl cross and that made me be good

' Did the church look beautiful, and did you like the singing?

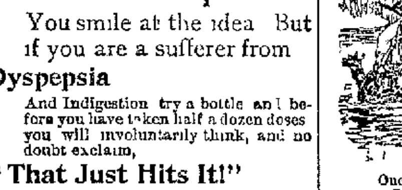

They did not give me a paper so I couldn't sing but the big bridesmaids had books I wish they had had Onward Christian Soldiers ' because I know that,' and here Miss Dorothy started to sing this hymn in the prettiest treble possible

Sunshine and Rain

"All sunshine makes the desert' is an old Arab proverb It would be well to remember this when a downfall of rain prevents some picnic or other enjoyable excursion that you have planned, for the very rain that you for the time find so annoying may help to make some desert place to bloom and be fresh. The sun never goes away for a very long vacation. He only slips behind the clouds to rest and there are sure to be plenty of bright days before school takes up again. Think of this and smile in spite of postponed picnics —St. Louis Post Dispatch

Two Little Turtles

Two little turtles on a rock
Watching the sun tick
Snapping merrily breakfast up
Of drowsy morning flies

One fly more luscious than the rest
Goes slowly flying past,
One turtle stretches out his neck
And gains the prize at last

But reaching over in his haste
He takes too hard a dash
And falling head first in the lake
The turtle goes—kersplash!

A GUSHER.

Lima Operators Strike a Good Well at Buckland.

Several years ago Mr. T. E. Bowsher leased his farm near Buckland for oil purposes to the Standard Oil company and received a bonus of $1,500. Some three or four wells were drilled in, but there was little or no oil, and in course of time the Standard gave up their lease. Recently Mr. Bowsher re-leased to a Lima company and a location was made on the southeast corner of his farm. Monday evening the well was drilled about eighteen feet into the sand when it commenced flowing at a rate that surprised everybody. Arrangements had been made to shoot the well, but it made such a good showing that the matter was indefinitely postponed. The well is good for 150 barrels.—Wapakoneta Republican.

An Ohio Mother's Letter.

MANSFIELD, O., March 13, 1893.

'I have used Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion for two years and it gives relief to my children when cutting teeth. My child after having the lotion applied a few times would actually cry for it. I have also used Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and Dr. Hand's Cough and Croup Medicine and can recommend them to all mothers."—Mrs. M. A. Ridenow. Dr. Hand's Remedies for children are sold by all druggists for 25c.

Jno P. Harley, D. ramer and E. Ashton.

Only Once.

"Do you mean to tell me," said the soulful young woman, "that you have never yet met the woman whose presence and touch thrilled your whole being in an utterly and indescribable manner?"

"Only once," said the weary young man. "It was when I was in the hands of a woman dentist."

W. H. Nelson, who is in the drug business at Kingville, Mo., has so much confidence in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he warrants every bottle and offers to refund the money to any customer who is not satisfied after using it. Mr. Nelson takes no risk in doing this, because the remedy is a certain cure for the diseases for which it is intended, and he knows it. It is for sale by Melville, druggist, postoffice building.

High Tariff or Low Tariff

does not interest the individual who is suffering from colic or diarrhoea. What he wants and wants badly is Foley's Diarrhoea and Colic Cure. 25c and 50c.

MADE THEM MARRY.

EMPEROR NAPOLEON WAS A MATRIMONIAL DESPOT.

He Compelled Women to Marry to Suit His Interests or Whims—Some of the Disagreeable Alliances Brought About by This Tyrannical Matchmaker.

Among the numerous works to which the revival of the Napoleonic legend has given birth is one called "Napoleon and the Ladies." The writer exerts himself to the utmost to transform the rough soldier and despot into a hero of romance, but without success. His relation with his two wives were not remarkable for either consideration or delicacy, and he adopted a coarse pleasantry in his conversation with the ladies of his court which was not far removed from downright vulgarity.

But what tended to make the very name of Napoleon hateful to all young Frenchwomen was his famous conscription of girls, whom he married offhand to his generals without the slightest ceremony. The Marquise de Corgny, on her return to Paris, was ordered to marry her daughter to General Sebastiana. Both mother and daughter protested in vain. Three days after the order the marriage took place at the Tuileries, Napoleon himself giving away the bride. Mlle. Adele de la Rochefoucauld was renowned throughout the whole department for her grace, beauty and expectations, when she was privately informed by the prefect that Napoleon had decided to marry her to Count Aldobrandini. The lady objected to the count for the best of feminine reasons—namely, that he was neither young nor handsome.

The count, however, was the brother of Prince Borghese, the husband of Pauline, the sister of Bonaparte, and the resistance of father and daughter was of no moment, and they were obliged to yield to the will of Napoleon. Count d'Arberg, the descendant of a sovereign family, prefect of the Bouches du Weser, and one of Napoleon's chamberlains, had two daughters of marriageable age. Napoleon ordered that one should marry General Klein, and the other General Mouton, count de Lobau. The mother of the two young ladies was Countess Stolberg, sister of Countess Albany, widow of the last of the Stuarts. Fanny Dillon, the daughter of Count Dillon, was ordered to marry General Bertrand. The young lady refused even to see the general, objecting that he was hideous, which unfortunately happened to be the truth. Napoleon was irritated at this conduct and ordered the young lady to be arrested and confined in prison until she consented to marry Bertrand, the monster, as she called him.

The Duc de Lauregauis, father of the Duc d'Arenberg, colonel of a regiment of cavalry and an unfortunate bachelor, was ordered by Napoleon, under penalty of dismissal from the army, to marry forthwith Mlle. Stephanie Tascher de la Pagerie, cousin germain of the Empress Josephine. The young lady as well as the duke objected to the marriage, and the former had the audacity to declare that she not only hated the duke, but was over head and ears in love with a certain M. de Gentry. The marriage between the cousin of Josephine and the duke nevertheless took place, and at the marriage ceremony, when the young lady, in reply to the priest's question, refused to say yes Napoleon himself deigned to push her head downward in token of assent. After the marriage ceremony this strangely married couple went to reside at the Hotel de Chimay. But the duchess refused to receive her husband, who, like a reasonable being, posted after his regiment, then serving in Spain. In 1811 he was made prisoner and sent to England, where he remained until the fall of Napoleon in 1814. On his return to Paris the duchess obtained a dissolution of the marriage on the ground of restraint, and she finished by marrying the happy M. de Gentry.

The Prince of Hohenzollern, cousin of the king of Prussia, was ordered to marry Antoinette Murat, a cousin of the "Beau Sabreur" and king of Naples, and although both the prince and Antoinette declared that they mutually hated one another the marriage nevertheless took place, Napoleon being of the opinion, like Mrs. Malaprop, that married life had better commence with a little hatred. One morning the Duc de Croy was informed by his friend, the prefect of Mans, that Napoleon had resolved that his daughter should be married at once to a general, and that an order to that effect would be delivered to the Duc de Croy on the following day. But the duke was a man of resource, and there being in the house an amiable cousin, one Fernand de Croy, a marriage between the two cousins was celebrated at midnight by the parish priest. When the formal order of Napoleon arrived the next morning, the duke replied that he was "desolated," but that his daughter had already married her Cousin Fernand. But it was not safe to try to outwit the powerful emperor, and a few days afterward Cousin Fernand, the married man, was drafted into a regiment of cavalry and sent to Russia, from which country he eventually returned, minus an arm.

As late as 1812 the Minister of Police Savery issued a circular to all the prefects of departments, ordering them to send to Paris a list of all the heiresses in their respective departments, with full particulars as to age, personal charms and amount of property, either in possession or in expectation. These lists were sent to the emperor, who divided his time impartially between their perusal and the monthly returns of the positions of his regiments and their presumed equipments. In fact, the emperor, whether from policy or freak, or from both, was an inveterate matchmaker and never troubled himself about the "conscientious scruples" of either the ladies or gentlemen concerned.—American Register.

Louisville has the largest tobacco warehouse in the world. It can store 7,000 hogsheads. It has also the greatest handle factory, where handles of axes, hammers and all sorts of tools are made of the best hickory and are shipped by millions to all parts of the world.

The only true knowledge of our fellow man is that which enables us to feel with him—which gives us a fine ear for the heart pulses that are beating under the mere clothes of circumstances and opinion.—George Eliot.

Excess of Genius In a Cattle Brand.

Old Dad Morrison, who used to have his headquarters on Buck creek, Briscoe county, in the Texas panhandle, found how unprofitable it is to be superior to one's associates. He suffered the discomforts and tasted the pains that wait on originality.

The brand which his triumphant fancy had achieved was a shackling, rudimentary human figure, such as infancy draws upon its slate at school, above the fond legend, "This is a man."

The boys welcomed and loved it. They christened it the Doll Baby brand, and its proprietor thereafter rejoiced in the sobriquet of Doll Baby Morrison.

It was a running brand, and old Dad was apt, in the storm and stress of sketching it with a redhot iron upon an unconsenting and recusant yearling, to draw the open circle which represented a head more like a horizontal oval. From this cranial irregularity of the miserable Doll Baby, the cowboys came to refer to the Morrison cattle as "Old Doll Baby's Flatheads."

When leisure and opportunity served, they would rope and tie down a Flathead or two and dispose themselves for an afternoon's artistic employment and recreation. The blank outline circle of a head would receive a set of rude features, wearing an expression of the utmost horror and despair. Wildly protesting limbs would be added to the simple parallelogram of a torso, the arms thrust frantically up, the legs on a dead run. And then, when the old man came upon his Flatheads so "improved," he would, in cowboy vernacular, just "beef!"—McClure's Magazine.

All She Knew.

Several years ago, when Professor John Philip Sousa, who will never be known by any other name among his admiring cronies than "Johnnie," lived over in east Washington, he was blessed with a little daughter whose mamma had brought her up with a strict and rigid observance of all the proprieties. One day little Miss Sousa approached her papa with evident mental perturbation. She seriously informed him that one of her little playmates had invited her to go upon an excursion on the following Sunday. "And, papa," she exclaimed, "when I told her it was a sin to do such a thing on Sunday, she began laughing and hooting at me. Now, papa, isn't it a sin to go on an excursion or anything like that on Sunday?"

The genial Johnnie was placed in a rather embarrassing situation, so he endeavored to slide out of it by mumbling something regarding impropriety and things of that sort and then proceeded to change the subject. His daughter, however, mistook his diplomacy for acquiescence in her opinion. "There," she said triumphantly, "I knew it was a sin." Then she added, with the utmost seriousness, "Just to think, papa, Annie is 11 years old and I am only 8, and still I know more about what vice is than she does." It was worth going miles to hear Johnnie Sousa laugh when he told that story.—Washington Star.

Married and Single Men.

When a woman is unmarried, she is called miss. When she is married, she is called Mrs. A man, whatever be his state, is Mr. Why should there not be some special designation for married men? "Master" has been suggested as an easy and not too great a change from Mr. for the designation of a married man. Thus Mr. Brown, after turning from the altar, would be Master Brown. This, however, is objected to on the ground that little boys are called master by servants and teachers, and the intimation would be that a man by marrying has entered his second childhood. By using the Latin dominus, as in the Portuguese, and call Mr. Brown Dom Brown the designation would be properly made. Another suggestion is that before a man marries the syllable "Ap" be attached to his name. Thus Mr. Ap Brown, son of Brown, would on marrying become Mr. Brown himself. Whether or not these suggestions be adopted it is plain that there is a necessity for some such distinctive appellation.—Atlanta Constitution.

Decorated Barns.

The Buffalo Courier believes that barns painted with advertisements deter many persons from buying neighboring property. "No man of good taste," it says, "cares to have a suburban home the view from which is bounded on all sides with reminders that he is mortal, and that immortality is only to be secured through the agency of Kilton's boluses, or Mudd's mustard plasters, or Skinem's salves, or Rattler's cough cure. The farmer may be indifferent whether he has neighbors or not, but he is not likely to be indifferent to the depreciation in the value of his farm, and that farm is always worth most which is in the most desirable neighborhood. Once prove to a farmer that painting his building with patent medicine advertisements cheapens his property, and he won't lose much time in getting rid of them."

THE ENGLISH GIRL.

A wonderful joy our eyes to bless,
In her magnificent comeliness,
Is an English girl of eleven stone two,
And five foot ten in her dancing shoe!
She follows the hounds, and on she pounds—
The "field" tails off, and the muffs diminish,
Over the hedges and brooks she bounds
Straight as a crow from find to finish.
At cricket her kin will lose or win—
She and her maids, on grass and clover,
Eleven maids out—eleven maids in—
And perhaps an occasional "maide over!"
Go search the world and search the sea,
Then come you home and sing with me,
There's no such gold and no such pearl
As a bright and beautiful English girl!

Her soul is sweet as the ocean air,
For prudery knows no haven there.
To find mock modesty please apply
To the conscious blush and the downcast eye.
Rich in the things contentment brings,
In every pure enjoyment wealthy,
Blithe as a beautiful bird she sings,
For body and mind are hale and healthy.
Her eyes they thrill with right good will—
Her heart is light as a floating feather—
As pure and bright as the mountain rill
That leaps and laughs in the Highland heather.

—W. S. Gilbert in "Utopia, Limited."

Fast Swimming Fish.

For long distance swimming the shark may be said to hold the record, as he can outstrip the swiftest ships apparently without effort, swimming and playing around them and ever on the lookout for prey. Any human being falling overboard in shark frequented waters has very little chance of escape, so rapid is the action of the shark, the monster of the deep. The dolphin, another fast swimming fish, a near relative of the toothed whales, is credited with a speed of considerably over 20 miles an hour. For short distances the salmon can outstrip every other fish, accomplishing its 25 miles an hour with ease. The Spanish mackerel is one of the fastest of food fishes and cuts the water like a yacht. Predatory fishes are generally the fastest swimmers. A fast fish looks trim and pointed, with its head conical in shape and its fins fitting close to its body, like a knife blade into its handle. Fish, on the other hand, with large heads, bigger than their bodies, and with short, stubby fins, are built for slow motion.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Genius and Physical Beauty.

Ouida proceeds to show that men of genius are fine, handsome fellows. So they are, as a rule. Witness Tennyson, Musset; Scott, the strongest man of the Rough Clan; Marlborough, Goethe, Bonny Dundee Burns, Longfellow, Sir Henry Taylor, Napoleon, Shelley, Byron—a galaxy of beauties. The Popes and Voltaires are the exceptions. Now, if genius gets money, renown, the affection of the sex which Ouida adores, victory, palms, pæans, and is besides a tall, strong, handsome person, surely genius has a happy time and may disregard the misconception of the stupid.—London News

How Javanese Settle Quarrels.

The Javanese manner of settling quarrels is quite original. When one man has offended another, the injured party gives notice that he is angry by drawing in the sand before the door of the offender a circle with a straight line across it, indicating that his affection, which would have been eternal, has been cut in two. Friends of both parties then shut them up. They parley awhile, then pretend to be born again, prattle as little children, and finally as men become reconciled and embrace. Should one be refractory and refuse to be conciliated, he is ostracized by the community so effectually that he is soon brought to terms. It is just possible that our enlightened citizens might consider this method better than knockdown arguments and certainly much cheaper than going to law.—Harper's Bazar.

GORILLA PARTIES.

The Latest Social Fad With the Fashionable Women of Boston.

To see the gorilla seems to be quite the proper thing. Thoroughbred horses driven by broadcloth coated coachmen have carried fashionable women and children to see the gorilla since he was given a home at the Scollay Square museum.

What is more, the gorilla furore is extending to places out of town. Gorilla parties are getting to be the rage in the suburbs, and the gorilla is a wonderful being. Of all the specimens of the tribe which have been exhibited he is altogether the most interesting. This may be a little severe on the late lamented Mr. Crowley, but facts are facts. To begin with, Mr. Crowley was a genuine, unmistakable chimpanzee. This gorilla is a gorilla from his toes up.

The thing which impresses one most in looking at the gorilla for the first time is that indefinable creepy sensation which a human monstrosity inspires.

The creature's strength is so great that even his gentlest caress may mean a dismembered limb. He has a sense of humor, for one thing, and it might occur to him that it would be jocular to twist Antonio's head off, which he could do quite as easily as he could pull the covering from a banana.

The most striking indication of the creature's strength is in his arms. They hang nearly to his feet when he stands erect, and with the long fingers are said to have a reach of nearly nine feet when he stretches to his utmost to get hold of something. His hands on the inside are smooth and almost white and are crossed and recrossed with the lines which are studied by those skilled in palmistry in reading the fortunes of human beings.—Boston Herald.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months' old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly, everything ran through it, like water through a sieve. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this Remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. D., Tamaroa, Ill. Louisiana's Capital.

The removal of the capital of Louisiana from Baton Rouge to New Orleans has been again proposed in the State Legislature in the form of a resolution to submit the question to a popular vote. It is doubtful, however, whether the people would record themselves in favor of a change, for in 1879—at a time when the State Capitol was almost fallen in ruins and the question in the same form was before them, and they decided that Baton Rouge should still be the capital.

BEAUTIFUL BINDINGS!

FOR YOUR

WORLD'S FAIR ART PORTFOLIOS

Almost everyone has taken up some coupon scheme by which they have procured a set of World's Fair Art Portfolios, commemorative of the many interesting features of the greatest of the world's expositions.

The Fair is dead. Long live the Fair! Let us carry in our minds all "the glory that was of Greece and the grandeur that was of Rome" as we saw it in the days of its existence if we will, but when we are passed away what avails our recollections? Let us do better. Artists have captured all this fugitive splendor with trusty camera and practiced pencil, and many splendid series of views of its art and architecture, its landscapes and waterways, its exhibits and curiosities, are the result—and the very best result. It is the Fair over again for ourselves and our children and their children—to the end of time, if they but preserve it. Let us take the initial step and have the parts of the Art Portfolios bound, that none may be lost or injured.

Let Us Bind Them Fittingly!

Let Us Bind Them Durably!

Let Us Bind Them Beautifully!

In Commemoration of Vanished Greatness and that they may last forever.

We can give you a binding that will make your books a fine parlor ornament. We are making a specialty of this class of work and will make amazingly low prices for the very nicest grade of work.

TELEPHONE CALL, No. 34.

TALES OF THE TOWN.

There was no police court to-day.

Born—to Mr. and Mrs. Ira Longsworth—a girl.

Miss Hattie McCoy entertained a number of her friends last evening at her home on West Spring in honor of Miss Lee.

A fine Percheron stallion, imported and owned by McLain Bros., south of the city, died yesterday. The animal was valued at $3,000.

Venerable David Faurot, who has been seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jos. Karnes, 403 West Market street, was some better to-day.

Wednesday afternoon the Cadets of St. Rose School and the Cadets of Wapak played a game of base ball of which the score was 21 to 19 in favor of St. Rose Cadets.

Yesterday afternoon Dug Norman and Andy Westbay were thrown from a load of hay near the Children's Home. Norman had his right leg broken. Dr. Terwilliger reduced the fracture.

Born—to Mr. and Mrs. Will Hoover, of West Spring street—an eight pound girl.

HAPPY EVENT.

Marriage of Mr. Ed List and Miss Mollie Hurst Last Evening.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hurst, of 106 Harrison avenue, was the scene of a happy event last evening in the marriage of their eldest daughter, Miss Mollie, to Mr. Edward List. Rev. Bethards, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, performed the ceremony at 6 o'clock, after which a delightful supper was partaken of.

Mr. List and bride repaired to their future home at 812 East Market street, after congratulations and the well wishes of the forty guests in attendance, the groom having everything prepared there for their reception.

Among those present from abroad were: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wren, of Marion; Mr. A. L. Blair, of Urbana, and Miss Mayme Barklow, of Bellevue.

Kelly Fined.

The fellow named Kelly, who was arrested by policeman Jackson night before last for assaulting Grace McConahy was this morning fined $15.20 by the mayor. Kelly paid $10 and, securing the remainder was released.

FIVE YEARS.

All Cities Have That Guaranty on Their Streets.

It Would be Folly for Lima to Let Her Contract for a Less One.

The TIMES-DEMOCRAT protests most emphatically against the letting of the contract for the paving of the Public Square under the present specifications.

In support of that protest the following correspondence from the city engineers of a number of cities is appended.

It is not asked that Lima receive more for her money than any other city, but the local taxpayers are entitled to just as much for their money as those of any other town receive, but they will not receive it if the present specifications prevail.

The custom of giving a five-year guaranty is an established rule and should prevail here.

Why should Lima release the contractor who does the work after a year's time has elapsed, when he would be in any other place?

BOUND FOR FIVE YEARS

The amount of money involved is not only the expenditure of about $30,000 now in the construction, but also a large amount for keeping up the pavement if a single-year guaranty is accepted.

There is no question but that many repairs will have to be made after the paving is down, as has been the experience in other towns, and the question resolves itself into this:

Shall Lima foot the bills after the expiration of one year, or shall the contractor be compelled to give the city the worth for the money and keep the city from expense for five years, the same as is done in every other town where the welfare of the city and the protection of the tax payers is considered?

The following communications are self explanatory and are published in support of the position the TIMES DEMOCRAT has taken:

Editor Times-Democrat:

Our brick pavement is guaranteed for a period of five years from the date of acceptance, and during said period, all defects in the pavement due to its proper use as a roadway will be repaired and made good by the contractor without additional expense to the city.

Yours truly,
F. M. RANDALL,
City Engineer.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., July 4, 1894.

Editor Times-Democrat:

ROUND ABOUT.

The following local bicyclists made the trip to Cincinnati to see the races on the Fourth, overland, on their wheels:

Chas Black, Will Truesdale, J. A. Barhydt, Will Bell, Will Edsell, D. A. Staples and Sim Stewart.

Baxter & Co. have secured the contract for equipping St. Roses church and the Parochial schools with steam heating apparatus.

A lady was recently seen cycling in Paris thus attired: A skirt of purple velvet to the knee, with knickers to match; purple velvet bodice, with lilac silk frills; black stockings, high laced boots and an immense black hat and veil.

The Union Oil Company, in which Mike Schall and several others are interested, began drilling on the Boose farm, east of this city, to-day.

Harry Harper, who with several Ottawa capitalists, will open a bank at that place, says they have everything in readiness for opening their institution and all they are waiting on is the arrival of some supplies, which have been laid out by the railroad strike.

Miss Schuyler, the American singer and composer, known on the stage as Idalia Scalia, is reported to be about to renounce the world and enter a Catholic convent.

A bicycle had collided with a delivery wagon on High street, and lay a tangled mass of ruins upon the pavement. The various parts of the machine soon began an animated discussion as to what particular part was to blame for the disaster.

"You lost your bearings," grumbled the handle bar to the wheel.

"And you are not fit to be pedaled," retorted the wheel.

"I'm sorry I spoke," was the courteous reply.

"You two tire me to death," put in the chain.

"Well, the handle bar was trying to saddle the affair onto me," remarked the wheel, with a trifle of resentment in its tone.

"Be quiet, you rub-bar neck," chirped the handle-bar.

"Was your headlight?" responded the wheel viciously.

"It may have been, but there are no wheels in it."

"May I axle little question?" meekly inquired the chain.

"I'll cog-itate upon the matter," replied the handle bar, and the stillness of the night was broken only by the wind as it whistled through the pneumatic tube.

"Everything's all right on the P., Ft. W. & C. now."

"Glad to hear it."

"Yes, trains will move along without any delay at all now, since that big boy arrived at Agent Bruce Oyler's home this morning."

BIG REFINERY SHUT DOWN

And Oil Will be Backed Up in the Lima Field.

The effect of the Chicago strike is being felt in this part of the country, the following notice having been sent yesterday evening to patrons of the Buckeye Pipe Line company.

Owing to the railroad strikes in Chicago, the refinery at that point, which has been receiving oil from this company in the past, is forced to shut down, it being unable to ship any oil. This stoppage will result in backing up oil in the field, and as long as present conditions continue, we will only be able to take from the wells a part of the production each day.

We send this notice to the end that all producers may do whatever seems necessary to them in the way of providing wooden tankage, or other means, to enable them to take care of their production.

REFUSED TO NOTICE IT.

The Republican-Gazette Declined to Publish any Account of the Corner Stone Laying.

Antipathy toward the Bodies Participating in the Ceremonies Supposed to be the Reason for it.

The publishers of the Occasional Gazette, when calling their publication a "daily," this week have only issued four editions in six days, are hereby notified that on Wednesday, July 4, the corner stone of the new government building was laid in this city with appropriate Masonic services, under the direction of the Grand Master F. & A. M. of Ohio; that the ceremonies were participated in by the Odd Fellows, G. A. R., Company C, O. N. G. with its Drum Corps, the Lima police force, the county, city and Federal officers; that music was furnished by Lima's pride—the Lima Choral society, under the leadership of Prof. William Miles, and also by the celebrated Heistand Band, of Van Wert; that an interesting collection of documents, etc., was placed in the box; that the corner stone bears the inscription "Laid July 4, A. D. 1894, A. L. 5894, by Allen Andrews, M. W. G. M., F. & A. M. of Ohio.

It is not apparent whether it is the antipathy of the publishers of the Occasional to the orders and bodies participating which caused them to entirely ignore the whole proceeding or whether many visits by "the reporter" to the flowing mint-julip bowl so befuddled his faculties that he forgot it. However this may be it would not be a bad idea for them to publish the above facts in order that their files may have the record. No one thinks of expecting any news in that paper, and therefore no one was disappointed in not seeing any account of the affair. But it might increase the value of their files to have them contain the records of the day's events, for taken altogether it was an epoch in Lima's history.

JUMPED THE TOWN.

A Collection Agency After a Few Days Duration

Leaves the City and Many Creditors, for New Fields.

A week or so ago a trio struck the city. The trio was composed of a rather neat and nice appearing young lady and two young men, who gave out that they were representatives of what is supposed to be called the National Collection Agency and that they were here for the purpose of establishing a branch. The business portion of the city was canvassed and a large number of persons who were not satisfied with their experience with similar concerns, engaged their services.

The strangers represented that after notifying a debtor and giving him a reasonable time in which to pay the amount owed, or arrange it to the satisfaction of the creditor, a green coated individual would haunt the unfortunate until he was glad to get the agent off his track by settling the bill. For this the agency was to receive a certain per cent. of all money thus collected.

Office room was rented of P. W. Rauch, the insurance agent in the Metropolitan block, and for about a week they evidently did quite a good business, but now they are gone and there is not not a trace left except numerous bills which they contracted and neglected to settle, among others being their rent.

How much the crowd collected and took with them is unknown.

COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

Ed Mains' House on Holmes Avenue Mysteriously Burned.

About 12 o'clock last night Ed Mains, who lived in a comfortable cottage on Holmes avenue, in the Holmes addition, was suddenly awakened from his slumbers by a bright light which shone into his face. Springing from bed he found the house in flames. He dressed as quickly as possible and grabbing a feather tick and two pillows rushed into the yard where he commenced yelling "fire" and carrying water in buckets to extinguish the flames. It was some time before any of his neighbors were aroused, and the flames spread so rapidly that it was impossible to rescue anything from the house. Finally an alarm was sent in from box 46, at the C. & E. and Main street crossing.

The South Side department and the ladder truck from the central station turned out, the former making a good run, and laid eleven hundred feet of hose just in time to save an adjoining house. Nothing could be done toward saving Mains house, which was burned to the ground almost before the alarm was turned in.

The origin of the fire was a mystery. Mains was alone in the house, his wife being away on a visit, and there had been no fire in, the house since noon yesterday. The loss is about $800, with $200 insurance.

AN OUTRAGE.

A Fine Bicycle Taken without the Owners Knowledge and Wrecked

Mr. Crimmel, an operator at the Buckeye Pipe Line office, left his bicycle in one of the company's rooms to-day and when he went to get it at noon, found that some one had taken the wheel out, broken the hind wheel, and then returned it. It is a handsome wheel, valued at $150. It is wrecked so as to be perfectly useless.

WHERE ARE WE AT?

Thoughts From a Democratic Soldier and Business Man

Who Does Not Endorse the Treatment Given General Ellis at the Late Congressional Convention.

I was very much interested in reading an article in the EVENING TIMES of July 2nd, signed by a "Republican Soldier" on Fraternity and Comradeship and the late Republican Convention. I have been a Democrat all my life. I went into the war as a Democrat, fought as a loyal Democrat, and have voted ever since the Democratic ticket. In the past year or so I have felt very much disappointed at the way some of our soldiers have been treated by the authorities at Washington, and my intention was to vote for a Republican for Congress—but what can I expect from the Republicans, since Republicans and ex-soldiers conspire to defeat for nomination a first-class ex-soldier candidate, a college graduate, a man of unquestionably good judgment and ability, and a comrade in whom we felt confidence that he would attend to their interests? I don't wonder that the soldiers are broken and divided when they allow themselves to be ruled and ruined by such leaders and false friends as have endeavored to assume the management of their affairs in Lima.

It would be better for the Republican party if they would leave it, as they have always been a disturbing element in it—but where would they go? We Democrats certainly don't want them. They might organize a party of their own—call it "The Saints"—men in whom there is no guile; elect Davis as President, Hall as Grand Sachem, Davies as Chief Advisor and Moulton as "Eminent Marshall," and then sew wings on them and turn them loose.

And now in conclusion, what will I gain by voting the Republican ticket at the next fall election? What will the ex-soldier gain by electing Davies? It is my opinion that this man Davies is starting out radically wrong to secure Democratic votes. He says he is going to challenge Layton to a joint debate. Is that good judgment? Is that a good way to secure votes in a large Democratic district? It is also my opinion that Davies and his dupes have not only hurt themselves and the Republican party, politically, in this county and district, but that they have injured themselves otherwise. Does any business man or concern want a man in charge of their affairs who drives away trade by making himself obnoxious to customers and their friends and the people? And this community would also like to know something more about Mr. Davies, morally. Can the Sidney Journal enlighten us? As he and his few indiscreet followers here have done all they could to injure Mr. Ellis in every way possible.

Was Determined to Ride.

About 11:40 o'clock to-day, when east bound train No. 6 on the P., F. W. & C., was leaving the station here, a tramp was seen climbing on the head end of the mail car. The train was stopped and the fellow put off, but as soon as the train started he got on again. The train was stopped a second time and the man was arrested by Detective Hurley, who brought him down to the station and locked him up.

C. H. & D. Employes on this Division not Inclined

To Leave their Positions out of Sympathy—Superintendent Husted Talks About His Men.

Superintendent F. A. Husted, of C. H. & D., was at his office this morning for the first since the strike at Chicago was inaugurated.

Since the outbreak in Cincinnati, Superintendent Husted has been down on that end of the line looking after the company's interests and this morning expressed himself as being of the opinion that the worst trouble had been passed by the C. H. & D. The situation at Cincinnati is quieter than at any time since the men went out.

Mr. Husted yesterday made a trip over this division and found every thing going along as usual and no indications of the men leaving their posts as was feared they would a day or so ago. The C. H. & D. men seem to be satisfied and are not disposed to leave their positions, especially when they have no direct grievance.

THE P., F. W. & C. WAS TIED UP

Most completely last night. The company could not get any trains in or out of Chicago, and several were laid out on sidetracks this side of the Windy City. The last passenger train to get through the gauntlet was the one which was due here at 3 o'clock p. m. yesterday, and which left Chicago at 7:30 a. m. This morning at 4 o'clock. No. 2, No. 8, and No. 4 and No. 6, east bound passenger and mail trains, were successfully started, the first train, No. 2, the limited, reaching here at about 11 o'clock to-day.

C. & E. TIED UP.

East bound passenger train No. 8, due here at 9:10 o'clock last night was the last passenger train that has passed through here eastward bound on the C. & E., the company being unable to get either No. 12 or No. 14 out of Chicago.

It was reported this afternoon that east bound train No. 2, which is the regular mail train, had been made up at Huntington with an engine and one coach and will arrive here late this afternoon. No freight traing except the locals are moving any where on the Erie between Marion and Chicago.
